

Love Me Tender, Love Me Queer

[Looking for interview partners]

What is love and what does love mean to you?

We are looking for love stories. Whether romantic, sad, fulfilling or heartbreaking. We are also curious about your thoughts and approaches towards love. We would like to conduct interviews with people of different ages who position themselves in the broad field of being queer. We are looking for your story!

What is happening with the interviews?

Short quotes from the interviews will be published together with other texts in a book that will be launched by edition mono in June 2025. Based on these interviews, the theater performance "Love Me Tender, Love Me Queer" will be developed, which will be staged at WUK performing arts in February 2026.

How can I imagine the interviews and their further use?

The interviews will take place in January and February 2025. We are looking for people of all ages based in Vienna. You can remain anonymous, use a pseudonym or be referred to by your full name. However, it is important for us that we are allowed to disclose your age at the time of the interview.

The interviews will be conducted by Marie-Christin Rissinger (*1986 | they/them) and/or Frida Robles (*1985 | she/her) and can take place in German or English. We would be happy to meet with you in person, but a conversation via Zoom is also possible. The interview will last approximately one hour. The audio will be recorded. Only the transcripts of the interview, not the spoken text, will be used further.

About the project

"Love Me Tender, Love Me Queer" is a multi-generational project by the artist group Blind Date Collaboration, consisting of a play and a publication focussing on the politics of gender, identity and love in connection to social norms and perceptions.

About us

Blind Date Collaboration is an open group addressing social issues through an artistic and interdisciplinary approach. Lately we realized theater projects, art projects in public space as well as installations.
